MRS. FISKE'S "HEDDA GABLER" CHARMINGLY PRESENTED.

MRS. FISKE As she appears in "Hedda Gablee."

An audience of discriminating ourn gave | Ebert, Mr. Frank Rushworth and attent car and eye to Mrs. Fiske's perattent ear and eye to Mrs. Fiske's performance of Henrik Ibsen's "Hedda Gals-ler" at the Grand Opera-house yesterday afternoon. It found itself delightfully entertained by the seven men and women tleties with which the play is crowded. It | found Mrs. Fiske far more charming as the oddiy unbalanced Hedda than she apears in the heavier part of Mary of Magdala. Her bundle of nerves belongs to the Ibsen woman and is no part of

There has been no performance in St. Louis this winter in which the element of unconcealed interest was as great as that which found expression throughout the Grand Opera-house audience yesterday. Mrs. Fiske made clear at the outset the delicately adjusted complications that surrounded her and her friends. Mrs. Elvstead's marriage to an older and unsympathetic man, suggested only vaguely by pathetic man, suggested only vaguely by the text; her devotion to a younger man, whose genius has combined with her own into comradeship; Hedda's earlier experience with the same genius, were developed with Mrs. Fiske's clear reading and intelfigent acting to the length that, before the first net was half played, the audience, with chin on hand, was fairly reaching for the story that was to be told.

Then came the almost cruel disappoint ment of her honeymoon, the absolute lack of sympathy between Hedda and her husband. Jorgen Tesman, the serious, squirrel-brained student, whose marriage with her had begun to appear as a hideous joke. In the scenes of the second act, in which these ideas are advanced. Mrs.
Fiske was incomparably appreciative.

Nor was the chief actress entirely the central figure among the seven. Mrs.
Fiske has been wise in the selection of the men and women who assist her in this Ibsen andeavor. Her Hedda has its place in the story—and no more. Where another "star" would take a commonplace woman for the part of the sympathetic
Mrs. Elvted, Mrs. Fiske has taken in Miss Bohn, an actress who deserves, for the excellence of her understanding of the emotions of a woman whose affections have been misplaced, critical attention all her own.

And in placing the genius Loyberg in he text; her devotion to a vounger man emotions of a woman whose affections have been misplaced, critical attention all her own.

And in placing the genius Lovberg in the hands of Mr. Glaser Mrs. Fiske has found a man who, for the brief scenes he has, holds so much attention that the chief player is for the moment forgotten. Mr. Glaser resembles Robert Taber. He has an excellent voice, and in the half-crazed condition in which the audience finds Lovberg gives a wonderfully effective picture. Of the men, however, the view presented by Mr. Mack of the simple-minded scientist, whose ill fortune it has been to become the husband of Hedda, is easily the best.

The elemental decency of the fellow, the helplessness he displays in the face of problems and his absolute vacuousness in matters of worldliness are so well shown by Mr. Mack that one found himself forced to the conclusion that is the greatest compliment that may be paid to an actor—that Mr. Mack was merely himself, which is not at all likely.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Fiske is to give but one more performance of "Hedda Cabber" and that will take place on Saturday night.

A departure from the beaten paths of musical comedy is promised in "Mam'selle Napoleon," the new piece Anna Held is to present next Monday at the Olympic, The cene of the play is laid in France during the most brilliant period of the Napoleonic regime, the character assumed by Miss Held being that of the Emperor's favorite actress. Mile, Mars,

The play is in three acts and five ableaux. It has forty-four speaking or singing parts, and a chorus of more than 90 persons. singing parts, and a chorus of more than 100 persons.

The first act shows the green room of the Comedie Francaise in 1869. The second act takes place on the lake at Camplegne. Napoleon's summer residence. The stage represents an island in the middle of the lake, in moonlight, and with the chateau illuminated for an imperial fete in the background.

The third act, first scene, represents the interior of the Grand Opera-house, Paris, during a masked ball, with a dance by the opera ballet. The second scene shows the his historie "Return From Eiba" with the Emperor and his staff on horseback at the head of a battalion of Grenadier.

THEATRICAL DEAL MAY NECESSITATE NEW THEATERS

Independent Managers Say They Will Not Be Cornered by Arrangement Between Syndicate and Stair and

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Feb. 3.-Theatrical circles are all asog over the announcement that the synthesic managers had made a deal with Stair & Havlin, by which the lat-ter firm took all the syndicate's popularpriced houses to book, and in return turned over to the syndicate their two high-priced theaters, the Majestic, in this city, and either the Majestic or the Globe in Bosby the syndicate were interested but not affected.

"It is a very important deal," said Oscar Hammerstein, "but it does not mean the cornering the market by any means."

David Belasco has no idea of allowing bis attractions to go roaming around the country without comfortable theaters to play in. To avoid any such trying conditions he is now arranging to build eight theaters in as many different cities in the United States.

"I am not the sort of man who likes to boast of what I am going to do," said Mr. itelasco, "and I do not approve of building theaters on paper. That is the reason I have said nothing about these new theaters. I will build a great many more than eight if need be. I will build theaters all over the country rather than be forced to submit to any unreasonable demands." mands."

Harrison Gray Fiske said that the new deal would in no way affect Mrs. Fiske's tears or future bookings, as there were plenty of theaters yet left to play in.

MORE SAWS FOR COLLINS. Prisoner Laughs When He Finds

Them in Envelope. George Collins, who is to hang at Union on March II for the murder of Pinkerton Detective Schumacher, yesterday was permitted to open a lefter which contained two steel saws. The letter came in the morning mail. It had not been stamped and bore a "due 2-cent" stamp. Jailer Dawson paid the 2-cents and accepted the letter for Collins. The saws could be felt in the envelope, and it was not necessary to open it to tell that something of the kind was concealed. Jailer Dawson took the envelope to the prisoner and had him open it in his presence.

Secretly Married to William F. Kintner by Springfield Probate Judge and Goes to Chicago.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.-A courtship romantle in character, culminated to-day in the marriage, in this city, of William F. Kintner of Chicago and Miss May Belle Irion of St. Louis. The couple were Irion of St. Louis. The couple were wedded in secret by Judge William H. Colby of the Probase Court. After the ceremony the couple left for Chicago. The girl came to Springfield unaccompanied and was met here by Kintnor, who came down from Chicago. Her parents opposed the marriage, although Miss Irion said she is 22 years old.

Kintnor formerly lived in St. Louis and is a zon of William H. Kintnor, a newspaper man in that city. His bride is a daughter of John W. irior. The groom is engaged in advertising work in Chicago, where he and his bride will reside.

Advocates National Law.

Recognition by the State of the indisform national divorce law, with only one divorce court in each State, and the ostracism of divorcess from society were the remedies suggested by the Reverend Father Otten, S. J., in his lecture on "The National Evil of Divorce" last night in Sodality Hall, No. 15 North Grand avenue. Father Otten said that at present there are some fifty divorce laws in the United States and that an average of 60,000 divorces are granted annually in this country, as against 177 in England, 19,600 in Germany and 15,000 in France.
